POINT TO PONDER

In the cause of freedom, we have to battle for the rights of people with whom we do not agree; and whom, in many cases, we may not like. These people test the strength of the freedoms which protect all of us. If we do not defend their rights we surrender our own. — Harry S. Truman.

SURPRISED BETHEL SOLDIER FINDS SEWING MACHINE IN ENEMY BUNKER

If an infantryman was asked what he would expect to find in an enemy supply cache, he would mention rice, weapons and ammunition. However, after a recent discovery American Division soldiers might suggest an addition to that list — a sewing machine.

During a sweep of an area south west of Tam Ky, Charlie Company of the 106th Infantry Brigade's 2nd Battalion, 1st Infantry came upon several abandoned hootches. One was particularly well camouflaged so it would not be seen by aerial reconnaissance.

"We had a notion when we saw how well the structure was camouflaged that it might contain enemy supplies," recalled Sergeant Michael Colby of Bethel, Maine. "We made a quick search and discovered a false floor and a four foot deep bunker underneath."

More than 1,000 pounds of rice, several loose AK47 rifle rounds and one medium-sized, crank operated sewing machine were found.

"The sewing machine was the last thing we expected to find," Colby said. "I remember our platoon sergeant shaking his head in disbelief when we told him about it. It would seem that the needle and thread are a thing of the past, but I'll keep my little sewing kit. It gets the job done and is definitely easier to carry around."

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The town crew has been doing some work in the Bartlett Cemetery that is located in Melvin Olson's field, East Bethel.

Proceeds from the book "The East Bethel Road" were donated by the author, the late Miss Eva Bean, to help maintain the cemetery.

Bushes and dead trees have been cut and removed. An attempt is being made to repair a stone that has broken off the base and also broken in two. If this is successful there may be others than can be repaired.

The town is custodian of several individual plots located in various cemeteries in town. We find the most of these lots require very little attention other than routine mowing. Those with the most money require the least care so that in some instances a large amount of interest has accumulated in trust fund accounts. This cannot be spent anywhere other than on that lot unless a road or fence adjacent needs attention.

One plot we are unable to locate belongs to a Nathan Stiles. Anyone knowing where this lot is is asked to contact the Town Office so we could inspect it and see if work needs to be done.

GOVERNMENT STATISTICS SHOW 0.4% RISE IN JUNE OF CONSUMER PRICE INDEX

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.4 per cent in June to 135.2 (1957-59=100), the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

The unadjusted increase was the same as May's and resulted primarily from higher prices for used cars, houses, and most types of consumer services. After seasonal adjustment, the CPI also rose 0.4 percent. This was less than the rise of 0.5 percent recorded in April and May.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, commodity prices rose significantly less than in May, as food prices declined and the rates of increase in prices of both durables and nondurables other than food both slowed noticeably. The June increase put the all-items index 6 percent above a year ago.

For perspective, seasonally adjusted annual rates of change in the index and some of its major components over the most recent 3-, 6-, and 12 month periods are given below.

Summary of Recent Price Changes
Seasonally adjusted* percent change at annual rate June 1970 from:

3/70 12/69 6/69

Consumer Price Index

All items 5.7 6.0 6.0

Commodities 5.2 4.5 4.7

Food 1.3 3.3 5.7

Apparel Commodities 3.5 2.0 4.0

Nondurables less food & apparel 5.3 4.1 3.7

Durables 8.1 5.5 4.5

Services 7.3 9.2 8.2

Rent 3.6 4.0 4.1

Household services less rent 7.6 11.1 10.2

Transportation services 6.9 12.1 10.4

Medical care services 8.4 9.2 6.8

Other services 8.5 6.1 5.6

* Percent changes for services are based on unadjusted indexes since these prices have little seasonal movement.

Charges for consumer services rose 0.6 percent. Costs of services associated with housing posted their smallest monthly rise in more than a year, primarily due to a slowdown in the rate of increase for property taxes and insurance, and mortgage interest costs. Prices of medical care, transportation, and "other" services all rose substantially and by more than in May.

Food prices declined on a seasonally adjusted basis in June for the first time in two years. Prices of meats declined instead of showing their usual June increase, largely because of reductions in the prices of most pork and beef cuts. Prices of fruits and vegetables climbed about twice as much as usual for this month on the strength of large increases for apples, watermelons, potatoes and cabbage.

Prices of other non-durable goods rose more than seasonally but by less than in May. Retail gasoline prices declined further and apparel rose at an accelerated rate.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, prices of consumer durables advanced in June, following a larger rise in May, as used car prices rose substantially for the third consecutive month.

MOLLYCKETT DAY REPORT

NEXT WEEK

There will be a complete report of the financial results of this year's Mollyckett Day in next week's Citizen, according to a spokesman of the sponsoring Bethel Lions Club.

utive month and house prices continued to climb.

Approximately 114,250 workers will receive cost-of-living wage increases based on the Consumer Price Index for June. About 42,000 workers, primarily in aerospace, will receive an 8 cent hourly increase, based on the change in the national index since June 1969, while an additional 27,500 workers, chiefly in mail order houses, will receive a 4 cent increase based on the change in the national index for the same period. Approximately 12,600 workers, primarily in the food processing and steel fabricating industry will receive hourly pay increases of 6 and 7 cents respectively.

Another 29,000 workers, including 13,000 employees of Eastern Greyhound Lines, will get hourly pay increases ranging from 3 to 5 cents, based on the change in the national index since March 1970. About 7,100 sheet metal workers in San Francisco will receive a 6 cent pay raise based on the rise in the index for that area since December 1969, and 1,800 printers in New York will get a 3 1/2 percent increase based on the rise in the CPI for the New York area.

About 7,000 workers who would normally receive pay increases as a result of the June CPI will not receive them this month because they have already reached the maximum stipulated in their contracts.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Correspondent —

All morning there had been an uneasy quietness except for the wind which raced up the pond from the south. I wondered if there would be more rain. But at noon there was a promise of good weather.

The sun came out and its rays flooded the earth rich and glowing. There was breeze enough to make one comfortable. So with my camera and binoculars I started up the hill beyond the house.

Up in this section of our spring there was a quiet so deep that nothing spoke except what had been here: the trickle of water, the stirring of the tips of the trees which spread a clean smell of pine and spruce, and a few birds whistling their signals to one another.

The wind coming down the mountain was refreshing and cool.

I had no special destination except to visit the ledges above the pond and road to see if the columbine seed I planted last fall grew.

So going on and up among the pine and hemlocks I saw a curious little bird chipping away. I sat down and watched. At first he was shy but eventually he came closer, slipping his tail and talking, the pine warbler.

The view from the top was as lovely as ever with gentler hills and broad valleys with fields and woods below.

There was a boulder with a flat top on which I sat and looked off over some poplars in the white birches. They quivered like ballet dancers keeping balance on toes, waiting for a given signal to run out on stage.

Leaving here I followed the small ravine for a time then took a southward course to the ledges.

Here at the very top bloomed the fireweeds, their spikes of beautiful brilliant flowers towering upward. Just back in the coolness and the shade were the Indian pipes rising like a company of waifs, colorless, waxy, cold, and clammy. How weirdly beautiful and decorative they are.

The pond nestled below looking like a crumpled blue kerchief.

I could see no columbine plants from here and dared not venture closer to the edge.

For sometime I sat and looked over the valley in the west. There was a bank of clouds like lumpy snow just piled there by a passing road scraper. Between some of these ridges appeared strips of intense blue.

A cross except to save me, hatched with a startled squawk (I didn't blame him) disappearing as suddenly as he had come.

Leaves from seasons gone had whirled over the ledges from the forest in back. Some had taken precarious footholds in the soil deposits and will eventually point its own specific color.

On the far hillside the evergreens were marching down. In the rear were the tall, mature, seedbearing trees. In the middle younger trees and out in front were the small trees. Each little tree was a replica of the taller trees behind. Year by year they take a step forward.

Looking up I was again reminded of Mary Schout's "Summer Sky." Up high, cotton candy clouds, as unambitious as myself, float by. Swallows look like little V's, as they glide the air with ease. Then the breeze becomes a broom and sweeps both birds and clouds away. And the mist brings down the curtain of another lovely day.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bowen observed their 45th wedding anniversary on July 20. They went out for supper then in the evening had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hanscom and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Inman at their cottage. Refreshments were served and they received by phone, calls from their two sons and a daughter who were in Ipswich and Burlington.

Notes from the
GREENWOOD WOODS

We have been dismayed to see in print, "Greenwood, the town that no longer exists." At the town hall Saturday evening present at the public supper were many prominent Maine people one of whom was our Maine Senator Muskie. He praised our Oxford Hills towns and said we are lucky to live here and our children also. Surely we know Maine will change probably within ten years—"there is no time like the present," was a Grange song of long ago. Robert Ingersoll wrote, "The time to be happy is now, the place to be happy is here."

Dismayed to notice how quickly the early wild flowers vanished. Along Lake Shore Drive on the mossy banks are the Dew Drop or False Violet. The bunchberry was showy July 15, too early we thought as we strolled along. Presently golden rod is in full bloom and brown Typha latifolia (cattails) along the shore. Riding along the lake sides is a cool treat of which many older citizens are aware when summer days continue very warm, a bit uncomfortable. Rocks which protruded have been removed and the road improved. One drives carefully because of curves. A question often asked concerns the beautiful pond lilies. Strolling along dark pink ones are observed and their reflections. Since cars are speedy much is missed of course. Where there were eleven purple fringed orchids (Maine's rarest flower)—two have recovered from heavy equipment which turned on the beauty spot. White orchids are found along the shore, numerous but not as spectacular. By the bridge a little shop provides marvelous pink water lilies which make a delightful gift to carry to a friend in a nursing home. Wrapped with a bit of wet cotton they are safely carried; a fragrance recalled by the one receiving them. — contributed.

Joy, Miss Brenda Petite and Donald Rainey attended a dinner party at Wallace Loffreda's camp on Round Pond, Locke Mills, Sunday.

F. M. Alanson Lovejoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Lovejoy left Tuesday, July 28, for Newport, R. I., for two years of Naval duty.

Randall Gilbert is a patient at the Rumford Community Hospital. He suffered a fractured pelvis in a fall Monday night at Kittery on a return trip from Massachusetts, where he had taken a load of lumber for P. H. Chadbourne Co. He drove the truck from Kittery to Bethel, following the accident. It is expected he will be in the hospital three to four weeks.

Christian Science
The basis of true brotherhood is explored in the Lesson Series on "Love" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, Aug. 2.

Readings from the Bible emphasize the love of God toward us, with several verses from First John including the following:

"If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

One of the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, reads: "The rich in spirit help the poor in the grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father, and blessed is that man who with his brother's need and sympathy is seeking his own in another's good."

Sermons begin at 11 a. m. at First Church of Christ Scientist, Main and Tenth Streets, Bethel, N. H., and the public is welcome to attend. Sunday School for young people up to 18.

RUMFORD HOSPITAL WINS BEST PATIENT RELATIONS PROJECT AWARD

Rumford Community Hospital has won an award for Best Patient Relations Project for 1970 in a national competition conducted by PULSE on Patient Relations, a newsletter distributed eight times annually to more than 6,000 hospitals throughout the United States.

A handsome winner's plaque was presented to Rumford Community Hospital administrator, E. E. Loubier, by Douglass Cyr of George C. Frye Company, Portland, a representative of the S. M. Edison Chemical Company, Inc., manufacturer of hospital products, and sponsors of the PULSE Awards Program.

Rumford's Best Patient Relations Project was selected from among hundreds of programs submitted.

Judges cited Rumford's project, "Community Involvement To Save a Life," as "a fine indication of dedication to the community at large. Results should be far reaching and will encourage public participation in the hospital as a service."

This project took place at a two-day Trade Show exhibit held in Rumford during the spring of 1969. Progressive Rumford Community Hospital had a booth and demonstrated how people can help in home emergencies by learning resuscitation techniques. Like the other trade show exhibitors, the hospital sold its wares—life-saving!

Planned and manned by nurses of the hospital's intensive care coronary care unit, the booth contained much of the electronic equipment of the unit. Over 600 people participated in demonstrations and hundreds more looked on.

This is the Rumford Community Hospital second PULSE award. The hospital was given an award in 1967 for a unique communications project involving physicians secretaries and hospital administrative personnel.

A total of 12 awards were contributed by S. M. Edison Chemical Company this year for distribution to the winning hospitals. Four awards are being presented to the Best Patient Relations category. Another four awards went to winners with the Best Nursing Project, and the final four awards were given to those hospitals winning in the Best Hospital Newsletter category. In addition, Honorable Mention certificates were given to a total of 33 hospitals for outstanding achievement in their particular judging category.

WORSHIP SERVICES RENEWED AT BETHEL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH THIS SUNDAY

Pastor Fred Bailey and family have returned from an enjoyable vacation, and services will resume this coming Sunday, Aug. 2, at the Bethel United Methodist Church, with communion being served. God renewed our spirits as we traveled through the lake-studded Andromedals, the majestically beautiful White Mountains, and even climbed Mt. Washington on foot. However, God also renews our spirits as we worship among his people in church on Sunday morning. Worship with us as we launch into the new challenges which lie ahead.

WOODCOCK HUNTING SEASON SET

The 1970 hunting season dates and bag limits on several migratory game birds have been announced by Maine Fish and Game Commissioner George W. Buckman.

The woodcock season will begin Oct. 1 and will run through Nov. 30, with a five bird daily limit and a possession limit of 10.

Common or Wilson's snipe will also be legal game between Oct. 1 and Nov. 30, and the limit on this species is eight daily and 16 in possession.

The season on sora and Virginia rails will run from Sept. 1 to Nov. 9, with a daily bag and possession limit of 25, singly or in the aggregate of these two species.

The open season for the hunting of sea duck - scoters, elders, and old squaws - will be Sept. 25 to Jan. 10. This season is in effect only in coastal waters and all waters of rivers and streams seaward from the first upstream bridge. The daily bag and possession limit are seven and 14, singly or in the aggregate of species.

Seasons and limits on migratory game birds are set by individual states within a framework established by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The federal migratory bird hunting stamp ("duck stamp") is not required to hunt woodcock, rails, or snipe, but is required for ducks and geese.

How and arrow, and shotguns not larger than 10 gauge, plugged to no more than three-shell capacity, are legal; rifles and pistols are prohibited.

Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Hunting on Sunday is prohibited in Maine.

RUGGED CANADA GEESSE

Canada geese can live to a ripe old age in spite of increased hunting pressure and many other pitfalls, according to two bands returned to the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Game.

Coincidentally, these geese were banded in the vicinity of Merrymeeting Bay on exactly the same day and month but three years apart. The oldest band, 448 13152, was placed on a goose of unknown sex and age April 22, 1948 and recovered in Maryland after being legally shot during the 1969 hunting season. Since the age of this hunker was not known when it was originally banded, it may conceivably be much older than 22 years.

The second Canada goose, 436 54718, banded three years later in Merrymeeting Bay on April 22, 1951 as an adult female, was shot in North Carolina on December 18, 1969. Keeping in mind that a Canada goose usually matures at 3 years of age she was determined to be greater than 20 years old.

MAINE METAL WORKING FIRMS INVITED TO CONFERENCE

AT SOUTH PORTLAND, AUG. 19-21

Over 200 Maine metal working firms and members of the Industrial Development Council of Maine have been invited to participate in a Business Development Conference and Exhibition scheduled Aug. 19-21, at South Portland, the president of Maine Metal Products Association has stated.

Roland L. Sutton, Jr., president, Maine Machine Products Co., Norway, said the exhibition, sponsored by the Association and the Maine Department of Economic Development, was open to all firms engaged in metal working and associated industries.

"The first conference of its kind to be held in Maine, it presents everyone with a unique opportunity to meet buyers and purchasing agents from many of the largest firms in the Northeast. At the same time, Maine businessmen will be able to take advantage of the group activities to extend Maine hospitality to customers, prospects and business acquaintances," Sutton said.

The three day conference and exhibition will be held at the Portland-South motel, South Portland.

F. H. A. LOANED OVER $1 MILLION IN COUNTY DURING 1969

Families in Oxford County borrowed $1,011,360. from the Farmers Home Administration to build and improve homes during the calendar year 1969, the Federal agency's county supervisor Elwyn Morrow, has reported.

"These funds, advanced under the Farmers Home Administration rural housing program, provided better and more comfortable homes for more than 116 Oxford County families," Morrow said.

He quoted James V. Smith, National Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, as reporting that more than 61,500 rural families across the nation participated in the rural housing program last year, borrowing a record $597.9 million. More than 250,000 persons are living in the better homes because of the program.

"We are attempting to keep housing credit flowing into our small towns despite the tight money situation and the national general housing construction slump," FHA County Supervisor Morrow said. "At the same time, we are encouraging builders and developers to step up their efforts to invest in rural America by increasing the volume of rural home completions."

Mr. Morrow noted that local banks and lending institutions participate in providing loan funds which are insured by his agency. He added that nationally more than 98 percent of individual family rural housing loan funds were provided by private investors.

"An important fringe benefit to rural America," Morrow said, "is that the rural housing loan program is creating more than 35,000 man-years of employment, contributing directly to the income of rural people."

Farmers Home Administration housing loans are made only to applicants unable to obtain credit from other sources, and who live in communities of not more than 5,000 population. The Oxford County office, located in the Masonic Building in South Paris is one of 1,700 offices serving the 3,000 counties of rural America.

Those receiving awards for perfect attendance for last quarter were: Roger and Kendy Wilday, Peter Hurd, Viola Sumner, Pays Wilson, Brian and Judy Verrill, Karen Dusham, David Esty, Dale Hadley and Calvin, Jimmy and Jeanne Mason.

The mission field to receive the benefit of our mission gifts this quarter is the "Southern European Division" comprising the countries of Southern Europe and parts of Northern and Central Africa. The newest mission area entered by the Seventh-day Adventist Church is the little country of Chad in the heart of Africa. Chad nestles close to the equator and has a population of two million people. 25th Wedding Anniversary Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Swain were honored on July 25 at an Open House at their home in East Andover for their 25th wedding anniversary.

The party was planned by Mrs. James Sennett Jr., a neighbor; Ross Swain, Rodney Swain and Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Swain II. They were assisted by neighbors and relatives.

Mrs. Swain was asked to accompany a friend to a local gift shop and when they returned she found her husband surrounded by friends that had just flown in from Rumford in their private planes. Mr. Swain had been told of the party the previous evening to prevent him and the family from taking a trip on Saturday.

Mrs. Sennett presented Mrs. Swain with a white carnation corsage tied with a silver ribbon. Mr. Swain was presented a carnation boutonniere. As soon as Mrs. Swain had left her home the hostesses and the hosts hurriedly set up a lovely buffet table in the dining room. Miss Leora Prentiss and Mrs. Swain's father, both of Benton, furnished the three tiered cake, topped with a fourth tier of an ornament of lilacs of the valley, white roses, silver bells and a silver "25". This was cut and served by the honored guests.

They also presented the couple with a floral arrangement of white mums, snapdragons, baby's breath and silver leaves, for the refreshment table. Mr. Swain's mother, Mrs. Robert J. Swain, provided the silver candleabra with five long white tapers and a bouquet of blue and white flowers. She had remembered that all the floral arrangements 25 years previous had been Air Corps colors.

The gift table centerpiece was a large floral arrangement of white and silver given by friends. Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Hamel, Westbrook, Mrs. Robert J. Swain II arranged the gifts, which included a cascade of money from friends and neighbors: floral arrangement of greenbacks, checks and bills from members of the families; gifts and cards. There were several telephone calls and a telegram was delivered during the festivities from Mrs. Thomas Crohan, Warwick, R. I., one of the bridesmaids.

Violet M. Peters and Lt. Robert B. Swain were married on July 25, 1945 at the First Baptist Church in Fairfield with Rev. George Hammond officiating. None of the seven attendants attended the party.

Mr. Swain owns and operates the R. J. Swain Dowel Mill. He enjoys fishing and flying his plane. Mrs. Swain has done part-time teaching but for the past few years has been bookkeeper for the business. She uses her spare time on community activities.

The Swains have three sons, Robert J. II, Hawthorne, California, a mechanical engineer at Douglas-MacDonald Aircraft Co. in Long Beach; Rodney, who will be a senior at Nichols College of Business Administration, Dudley, Mass.; this fall, and Ross who will be a Sophomore at Telstar Regional High School, Bethel, in the fall.

Approximately 65 attended the open house. Out of town guests included Miss Leora Prentiss and P. H. Perkins, Benton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Birthday Calendar Drive Planned by Andover Fire Department
Andover fire department members will be knocking at doors around town beginning August 3, 1970, to tell people about the publication of their first year community birthday calendar.

The calendar will list schedules for school activities, meeting dates for organizations in town, and names and birthdays or anniversaries of Andover residents.

A picture of the Andover Fire Department will be printed on the cover.

The firemen, and the ladies of the auxiliary, are forming into various committees for gaining necessary information about clubs, churches, personal dates and for contacting the local merchants for advertising.

Chief Donald French said, "The Community Birthday Calendar idea is a good one. Andover has needed such a calendar for many years. We hope to make this first campaign interesting and successful so that it can be adopted as our one major fund raising program each year."

If one of our firemen overlooks making contact with you and you wish your name and anniversary printed on our forthcoming Community Birthday Calendar, please any member of the Department and he will be glad to see you in person.

MUSKIE ASKS RESPECT FOR THE WILDERNESS

Senator Edmund S. Muskie told an audience at the dedication of the Allagash Wilderness Waterway at Churchill Dam in Maine July 19 that "to lose reverence for the land . . . ultimately means losing the land itself."

Senator Muskie called the dedication of the waterway "an example of rugged determination, of common sense, of a respect for the values of the wilderness" which makes "the day belong to the people of Maine."

"We know something splendid has happened here . . . the assurance that part of our origins as a country will remain with us . . . that in the Maine woods, the appearance of man has not signaled the disappearance of nature," the Senator said in his prepared remarks.

"But we also know that many Americans will never shoot the rapids down river . . . they will not smell the perfume of the pine and fir trees." It is important for them to realize, in their own cities and towns, a sense of community with man, as well as with nature, a sense of freedom, a sense that life is worth living.

"That is why the open spaces we have cluttered over the years must be restored, why the rivers and lakes we have fouled must be cleared, why the neighborhoods we have neglected must be made welcome again," Senator Muskie added.

"The conservation ethic means not only the conservation of our natural resources, but also the conservation of our inner spirit," he said.

SOUTH ARM CAMPGROUND OPENS NEW TRAILS

Antwar The South Arm Campground announces the opening of two new trails for all who are interested in hiking the beautiful country through "Black Brook Notch on the South Arm Road (Route 5). About a mile from the campground, look that Rock Trail offers an interesting climb to both the experienced climber as well as the novice. At the summit, a tremendous outlook of Maine granite provides a vantage point from which the hiker can view the panorama of the Richardson Lakes which reflect in its clear waters the green forested slopes of the towering mountains.

The southern view is of Old Blue Mountain, still shrouding its secret of Devil's Den. Black Brook Notch which watches protectively over Black Brook and the South Arm Road with the village of Andover in the distance. Although opened only two weeks ago, a total of 20 climbers have already made the ascent with knucklers and cameras to record the breathtaking views.

A most interesting hike leads from the South Arm Road to Devil's Den, the scene of the long ago Indian massacre of Harnett Brown. A short walk in from the road brings the hiker to Silver Ripples Cascade formed by Black Brook as it flows through the passage between massive granite walls. Out through the cedars by the waters and ice of winter, the cascade flows over the rapids to form the Emerald Pool. Following the directional arrows, the next visit is to the Den itself. Carved deep into the granite by the original course of Black Brook, the Den is about 80 feet in height and forms the letter U. During the early days of the village of Andover, an enter-pricing pioneer named Smith long has mill wheel at the top of the Den and used the power of the water to grind the corn for the villagers. Steeped in legend and old tales, the Den casts its spell over visitors as the roar of the brook is muted when standing in the Den. Obtaining a clear photo of Devil's Den has become a challenge to all photographers due to the eerie lighting created by the granite walls and overhanging trees.

These trails are the beginning of a series throughout the South Arm region opening up new and delightful vistas of the many mountains and craggy cliffs which haven't been explored for almost a century.

MOST BAD BREATH
CAN BE CONTROLLED

Once considered an almost unmentionable subject, bad breath is now more openly discussed. There are many possible causes of bad breath and therefore many different ways to control it. If it is a problem stemming from a condition in the mouth your dentist can suggest an effective method to lessen or even eliminate it. Certain mouthwashes and other products can be useful in everyday care.

Other causes of bad breath can come from the stomach or lungs and in some cases has been related to emotional stress. Once the cause has been determined a way can usually be found to stop it. Do not be afraid to discuss bad breath with your physician or dentist.
